

Most genera contain only one class

Co-occurrence is usually fixed across a genus, so for most species the genus alone determines the label

